About

Kodungallur Kunhikuttan Thampuran Memorial Government College-situated at Pullut near Kodungallur, Thrissur district of Kerala, is named after the great scholar-poet Kunhikuttan Thampuran who came to be called “The Kerala Vyasa” for his brilliant rendering of the great epic, ‘The Maha Bharatha’ into the vernacular.

KKTM Govt.College owes its origin to the enthusiasm shown and initiative taken by the enlightened people of Kodungallur nearly four decades ago. The college was established on 1st July 1965, to commemorate the services rendered by the late poet Kunhikuttan Thampuran to Malayalam literature. The inspiration behind KKTM Govt.College is the belief that an educational institution would be a fitting memorial for his enviable literary achievements. The college was managed by a trust, Kodungallur Kunhikuttan Thampuran Education Trust, until it was taken over by the Govt. of Kerala in 1972.
